Usage Guidelines:

1. Observation:
- Accurately observe physical characteristics, cultural indicators, and any available information.
- Avoid assumptions based on clothing or superficial attributes that can vary widely within ethnic groups.

2. Recording:
- Use the appropriate IC code when logging incidents, reports, or interactions.
- Ensure consistency and accuracy in using these codes for reporting and data collection.

3. Communication:
- When reporting or communicating about an individual, use the IC code to maintain clarity and consistency.
- Provide additional descriptive details as needed to support identification without relying solely on the IC code.

4. Cultural Sensitivity:
- Be aware of and sensitive to the cultural implications of categorizing individuals.
- Respect the dignity and identity of all individuals in security operations.

Important Note:
- IC codes are intended to assist with quick identification and reporting but should always be used responsibly and ethically.
- Regular reviews and updates to the coding system may occur to reflect
